

OCTOBER LONG WEEKEND CONFERENCE

Greetings,

We are spoiled for choice with conferences but let me strongly encourage you to keep the October Long Weekend free if:

1. You want to be challenged when it comes to what you should be doing with your life and
2. You want to be encouraged to live your life in such a way to support the preaching of the gospel of Jesus or
3. You're thinking about starting as a ministry apprentice in the next 3 years, and
4. You want to be in partnership with others who are seeking to reach this city and the world for the sake of the Lord Jesus Christ.

You should come because the Mission Minded Conference aims to give people a vision of what life is really about – seeing people acknowledge Jesus as Lord to the glory of God and helping them take the steps that they need to live this out in their lives.

Therefore this new October conference will look at "Conviction", "Character" and "Competance" over three years with "Character" the theme for 2011. The conference will revolve around –

Preaching – Phillip Jensen will speak to us from the Bible and challenge us to live for the sake of Jesus in every area of our life.

People – There'll be opportunities throughout the weekend and plenty of free time to meet and to talk to like minded-people either in groups or personal interviews. The aim is to work through what living for Jesus is going to look like in your particular situation.

Prayer – We will join together to pray that God would bless us, Sydney and the world, with the knowledge of Jesus and a love for the lost, recognising that God is sovereign in everything.

Practise – In both practical sessions and the talks we'll consider how our character will affect both our lay and fulltime Christian ministry and why.

It's going to be a fantastic time of refreshment, challenge and encouragement and we'd love you to come. It will be held at the Anglican Youthworks site at Port Hacking and will cost $220.
